

Dr Ramesh Mehta
MD, FRCP, FRCPC, FHEA, DCH
Consultant Paediatrician

Dr Ramesh Mehta graduated from Nagpur, India and moved to UK in 1981. He is a consultant and lead paediatrician at Bedford Hospital. Dr Mehta is a general paediatrician and a neonatologist. His clinical interests include paediatric rheumatology and childhood asthma. He also has special interest in sickle cell disease and tuberculosis in children. He has presented several papers in national and international meetings.

Dr Mehta has taken keen interest in medical education and training and during his career has undertaken such roles as postgraduate clinical tutor for Cambridge Deanery, undergraduate speciality tutor for Cambridge University, college tutor for the royal college of paediatrics, PLAB examiner for the General Medical Council and an instructor for advanced paediatric life support training.

Dr Mehta is also vice chair on the MRCPCH part 2 examination board, an overseas examiner for MRCPCH, an elected member of the council of Royal College of Paediatrics and Child Health, a fellow of the Higher Education Academy, UK (FHEA) and member of standards setting group in paediatrics & neonatology, General Medical Council, UK. He also holds the role of a reviewer for Health Care Commission.

Dr. Mehta is founder president of British Association of Physicians of Indian Origin (BAPIO) which is the largest and most influential organisation for international medical graduates in UK helping overseas doctors in the UK achieve professional excellence.