

Dr Sarah Snape
BSc, MB BS, FRCA
Consultant Anaesthetist

Dr Sarah Snape qualified from the Royal Free Hospital School of Medicine in 1988 having gained a BSc in physiology in 1985 en route. She passed the final FRCA exam in 1993. Her registrar training was split between Oxford and Cambridge.

Dr Snape was appointed as a consultant at Bedford Hospital in 1998. Her main area of clinical interest is critical care; other interests include education, blood transfusion (she is chair of the hospital transfusion committee) and nutrition. In addition to her consultant role, Dr Snape is also clinical sub dean for the Cambridge medical students.